MiniBotz is a vertically scrolling action/strategy game. The gameplay is broken up into short levels that are played out over roughly 5 minutes. The objective is to defeat the 6 cockroaches and main bosses before the timer runs out. Once in-game, you can choose your 4-member team to lead your little robots in your struggle for dominance. Your team members will attempt to progress through a level to dominate their enemies. At certain points on the levels, you will collect "Bots" which will allow you access to a new ability. Once you gain enough Bots you can upgrade your own character for bonus weapons and additional abilities. The 3D environments will allow the players to move around and manipulate the environment. Your support will allow us to add more characters, more weapons, and more levels as we go along. Your help with the Kickstarter means we can continue to produce a game people will continue to play for a long time. Thank you for supporting us on Kickstarter. About Us: We are based in Ontario Canada and have worked together for over 3 years on this game. We have experience in Industrial Design and Game Development. We have an extensive portfolio of games and projects on different platforms and enjoy the game development process. Our goal is to bring MiniBotz to the market and receive your support as we do so. FAQ: If you have any questions or concerns please email: minibotz@gmail.com We encourage you to leave feedback on Kickstarter. Kickstarter will also be the best way to connect with us if you have any questions or concerns. A: I'm not going to be answering any of your questions, as you were the ones on the forums, and you got the most votes (even though I wasn't going to vote for you because I don't use Kickstarter, so I thought it was a waste of money, but I was overruled). You answered my one question. That one question you didn't answer is "why?" Why do you want to do this? Why start your own studio and game after paying the big bucks to make a AAA studio? I'm not asking about how awesome Kickstarter is, I'm asking about you. How do you feel when you get an email from a fan of your game and you can't tell them why you quit your job and spent 8 years of your life to make something, and they say "I like this but it isn't good enough" or

A Robot in a box by The Robot. About me: I'm a 25 year old professional truck driver. I was born and raised in Michigan. I have a wife and two kids. I love sports and I'm a big Detroit Tigers fan. I also like hunting, camping, fishing, and doing anything outdoors. I have two dogs that I love. I'm a big Detroit Red Wings fan as well. I also love small cars. I'm not a full time Indie developer but I do have a lot of spare time on my hands. Right now, I'm playing around with some new hardware and software ideas. If you want to know anything else, message me! Thank you for taking the time to learn about me. Video Content: I have only been making games for a little while. To date I've only worked on mobile games. I did do a short arcade video game called "Next Step" that I made in the late 90s. I plan to make more games for mobile as well as PC. Currently, I have around 40 - 50 levels of a shooting game in development. You can see them at any time on my Twitter. Website: More info can be found on the main page. It is a good warm up game for kids and adults. Check out the Leaderboard on twitter and find out where you rank on there: YouTube: Twitter: E-mail: P.O. Box 238980, Troy, MI 48098

What's new in MiniBotz:

Pocket Bluetooth RGB Led I have found many ways to control many different devices from many different systems over the years from the old Control4 P/S Controller or with various receivers and other apps. Many of them just feel different and I've yet to find something I like for everything. I have two of them at home right now that I use for a lot of things but they both lack something that I think would make it perfect (but the old one still works just fine). I wanted a remote that I could use anywhere and it doesn't really need to look super professional either. I wouldn't want to stick it inside the TV or even my receiver as I don't want the hacked ones to succeed in anyway. I wanted something that could control 2 different things. Something that could control 2 remotes and also something that could be a bed remote too, as I have a few IR outlets across the house that I would like to plug into this easily. After looking around I decided to go with the IKEA Botz Stuff Bluetooth Powered Remote Control Modules. There are two types of these modules that can be used as normal remotes or lighted remotes. I chose a white one that could handle 5 colors and also one that is black and could handle at most 5 colors. I also wanted something color accurate and did some research into finding the best colors for my ir remote. The ones that I found were RGBW and RGB leds. Eventually the white will be RGBW which looks better for tv and receiver connections anyway. What you will need: Pocket Botz Modules Bulky Robot Ebay Link Jetta Botz Receptors BulkyBotz Make a switch (Onelink 34 or Qfour 1713 PLL) JettaBotz LED Receptors (White and Black) Sparkfun Neopixels A SMD LED Strip (Shielded or 4 pack) 5V power source or power pack/s Tharadoxin CR 2066 Batteries - DO NOT USE IMPERIALS - Will blow up if charged properly in serial, and will not hold charge, they have flooded the market so you will not find them around (this worked well for me but never tested on imps) All of those things are listed below/linked in the image above so you can see what everything needs to look like. I just would recommend
